

Columbia University Health Sciences Library Archives & Special Collections

Neurological Institute of New York. Scrapbook, 1912, 1923-1926

NEUROLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF NEW YORK.

Scrapbook, 1912, 1923-1926.

1 volume.

SCOPE AND CONTENT: Scrapbook documenting the activities of the Neurological Institute of New York. The bulk of the volume is comprised of clippings from New York City newspapers but there are also programs, invitations, tickets, and a photograph. News about scientific work at the Institute, profiles of its medical staff, and articles about its fundraising events comprise the majority of the clippings.

HISTORICAL NOTE: The Neurological Institute of New York was founded in 1909 as the first hospital and research center in the Western Hemisphere devoted solely to neurological disorders. It was originally located at 149-151 East 67th Street. In 1925, it affiliated with Presbyterian Hospital and in 1929 occupied its own building on the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center campus in Manhattan's Washington Heights neighborhood.

In April 1933 the Neurological Institute Board of Directors was merged into the Board of Managers of Presbyterian Hospital. However, the Institute remained a separate corporation until its complete merger with Presbyterian on Dec. 31, 1943. The name "Neurological Institute" is still used to refer to the department of neurology of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

LANGUAGE: English.

ACCESS: Unrestricted.

PROVENANCE: Gift of the New York-Presbyterian Hospital Dept. of Public Affairs, 2000 (acc. #2000.01.20).

Subjects:

Neurological Institute of New York.
Hospitals – New York (State) – New York.
Neurology.

Finding aid written by Stephen E. Novak, Jan. 2010.